RAY HEARST IN SENATE FOR HIS
MEXICO 'EXPOSE'

Norris Calls Editor
"Without Honor."

ST. ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(Special)—William Randolph Hearst was presented in the Senate today for his exposition of unauthentic Mexican documents impugning the integrity of our senators and several other persons.

All the members of the special investigating committee, with the exception of its chairman, Senator Reed (Rep., Pa.), who was absent, took turns to exonerate Senators Borah (Rep., Idaho), Norris (Rep., Neb.), La Follette (Rep., Wis.), and Heflin (Dem., Ala.). These four were named in the alleged document purporting to be an order of the Mexican treasury for the payment to them of $1,215,000.

Charges Selfish Purpose.
Senator Robinson (Dem., Ark.), himself leader of the senate and a member of the investigating committee, defended Hearst unmercifully. He charged the publisher with the dishonoring of public men to further his own selfish purposes.

Offering open letter to Hearst by Senator Norris, who is confined to his home by illness, was read in the Senate at the instance of Senator Howell (Rep., Neb.).

Senate Johnson (Rep., Cal.), Jones (Rep., Wash.), and Bruce (Dem., Md.)—the other members of the investigating committee who were present hastened to assure the senate that a scintilla of evidence had been adduced to indicate that the four senators mentioned in the documents had received any bribe money or had even approached with the object of doing so.

It was the purpose of Hearst, as charged by his critics, to provoke a break between the United States and Mexico and apparently has been circumvented by a combination of circumstances. Chief of these are the friend relations with the Calles government about which our own men, Dwight Morrow, and our nation hero of the hour, Col. Lindbergh.

Find No Evidence of Bribe.
Senators Johnson (Rep., Cal.), Jones (Rep., Wash.), and Bruce (Dem., Md.)—the other members of the investigating committee who were present hastened to assure the senate that a scintilla of evidence had been adduced to indicate that the four senators mentioned in the documents had received any bribe money or had even approached with the object of doing so.

Chief of these are the friend relations with the Calles government about which our own men, Dwight Morrow, and our nation hero of the hour, Col. Lindbergh.

May Relax Arms Embargo.
Hearst learned tonight that the administration is considering the advisability of relaxing the rigor of the laws on the export of arms and munitions to the Mexican government. Such a step may be a lifting of the ban on the export of airplanes to Mexico.

After pronouncing Senators Borah, La Follette, and Heflin "unashamed and incorruptible," Senator Norris of Arkansas turned his attention to Hearst.

"Hearst's sin," he said, "is not so much that he is considerably more interested in his personal documents involving the names of senators who were guilty than that he fails now, through a sense of publicity, to undo what he has done. It takes time to build a reputation that can stand the constant beat of the press of publicity. One who achieves success that aim has achieved something worth while, something valuable beyond price."

Hearst Breeds Revolution.
There are sufficient incidents in fact to threaten the public confidence in the officers of this government. Whenever the public believes that the men who serve them are corrupt, their opinion will reflect itself in processes of destruction. It is right and proper that they vindicate their honor and receive compensation for service, consideration of a questionable nature, should come.

"It is a pity—great God, it is a pity—that the great power of the press newspapers has not been employed to the purification of public office, where corruption is known to exist."

"It is a wrong which cannot be remedied here that the mighty press which has amassed millions and millions of dollars which reach from limb to limb of this continent should seek to said to correspond with that given by persons who saw the Parker case criminal.

Hickman entered a plea of guilty in the Juvenile court and was released on probation to his mother. His last known address was given at that time as 2523 Dirth street, Alhambra, which is three doors from a house which was concerned with the Parker case and which was being investigated by the police last Saturday.

Revenge His Motive.

When Hickman was in court, Parker was the only bank official who opposed his plea for probation, and for this reason police believe the primary motive in killing the child was vengeance.

Hickman's mother is Mrs. Eva M. Hickman. His father is W. F. Hickman. He has an uncle, D. Hickman, living in Oklahoma.

Chief of Detectives Herman Cline announced this morning that the Hickman family had moved from Alhambra about a month ago. At that time they told neighbors they were going to Kansas City. The man hunt in the Parker case first turned to Kansas City with the discovery that the Los Angeles murderer drove an automobile which had been stolen in Kansas City on November 7, last, from H. L. Mantz in a hold up.

Change License Plates.

The car later was equipped with 1927 California license plates No. 1-467-679. These plates were stolen in San Diego December 5 from the Ford car of M. H. Eastman of San Diego. The original Missouri license plates were found under the seat cushions of the car when it was found yesterday in a public parking station where the murderer had stored it after his deed of last Saturday.

Late this morning Chief Deputy District Attorney Harold L. Davis said "there is absolutely no doubt as to the correctness of the evidence that they have Merton." The finger prints of Hickman and those on the ransom letters and the murder car are identical in every iota."

Find Slayer's Lair.

Word of the escape of a suspect from a Southern Pacific train near Saugus and the discovery of a house police believe was the lair of the man who kidnapped and killed Marian Parker were earlier developments to night in the search for the slayer.

The house is close to the spot where the slayer on Saturday night collected $1,500 from Mr. Parker and left the girl's mutilated body.

Saw 2 Men, Woman.

Neighbors said they had seen two men and a woman in the house recently, but they had moved away several days ago. In searching the house police found a scrap of paper with the word "Marian" faintly scrawled on it.

The owner of the house said it had been vacant, but when he was in it last week he found signs that someone had been occupying it unknown to him.

Several Suspects Examined.

Several suspects were taken during the day, but tonight it was believed none of them had any connection with the crime which culminated Saturday when the mutilated body of the girl was delivered to her father.

That two men may have had a hand in the crime was said to be a possibility tonight, when Miss Helen Seelye, telegraph operator, gave a description of a man who gave her one of the ransom telegrams sent the child's father. Her description differed from that given by telegraph operators at Pasadena.

Huge Total of Rewards.

The search for the suspect tonight was spurred by the collection of rewards totaling almost $100,000, most of which was in voluntary contributions, and by an attack on the efforts of city police in city council today.

At the council meeting Councilman Carl Jacobson declared the police had bungled the job and called on city officials to help in the investigation.

One result of the day's work, the police said, was the capture of the killer. Marian was kidnapped last Thursday and in which her dismembered body was delivered to the father.

And late tonight they received a cable from Santa Monica which they conceded important. This came from a man, whose name was not made public, who told of the disappearance from a sanitarium there several days ago of a man kept under restraint for mistreatment of young girls.

The informant said he had been the man's keeper. His description of the man was similar to the description of that of Marian's kidnapper, police said.

Late today the girl's funeral was held secretly. It had been announced for tomorrow morning, but to avoid a curious crowd the body was taken to Forest Lawn cemetery, where the services were conducted by the Rev. Herbert B. Smith of Emmanuel Presbyterian church.

Find Room and Automobile.

Police also announced tonight that they had discovered the room from which the kidnaper had spied upon the Parker family and detectives stationed at the Parker home during the period the girl was missing. This was a room on the second floor of a private garage, at one time used as a fraternity hall.

The automobile was found in a parking lot near the spot where the child's body was found by the slayer. It was traced by the tracks of its tires.

For two days police concealed that the car had been located. A guard was stationed over the car Saturday night, because the man who parked it promised to be back for his car on Sunday. But the killer never came back.

Many Arrested and Freed.

The police arrested and released a number of suspects today. The long session of questioning was conducted behind closed doors with Detective Chief Herman Cline interviewing Earl Smith, 27 years old.

This prisoner, who is booked on a suspicion of grand larceny charge, was acquainted with both the twin Parker girls, Marian and Marjorie, and their 18 year old brother "Bill." Bill was called to the police station today in connection with the questioning of Smith. He admitted that he knew Smith.

Former neighbors of the Parkers who had known Smith also were questioned. It was learned that police who stayed away from the Parker girls. Smith was released tonight.

Other suspects included Gaylord Barnaman, 24; Mrs. Lillian Padley, 22, and Lewis H. Wyatt, who was arrested on a bus at Las Vegas, Nev., and later released when he proved an alibi.

Mrs. Padley was arrested in a house where it was first believed the child might have been slain, but was absolved of connection with the case. She had been arrested running up and down the street screaming "I didn't kill her; I didn't kill her—they did it."

Bloodstains had not been found in the car, as was expected, so it was announced by Chief Detective Cline. A picture of Judas Iscariot was on a wall, and this also threw suspicion on the occupants, since the slayer had in a ransom letter described Mr. Parker as Judas Iscariot for revealing the case to the police, despite the kidnaper's warning.

Mrs. Padley pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was given the alternative of $10 fine or ten days in jail.

Chief Cline said there was no indication that the body of the child had been dismembered in the house where Mrs. Padley was arrested.

Smith and Barnaman were viewed at police headquarters by Mrs. Mary Holt, official of the Mount Vernon Junior High school, but she was unable to identify any of them as the man who lured Marian away.

The kidnaper had asked her permission to take the child from school Thursday, representing that her father had been hurt in an accident.

Barnaman was placed under arrest after he had telephoned to radio stations representing himself as the kidnaper and inquired about reward money. Investigators were inclined to believe that Barnaman was a "crank" and that he had no connection with the known slayer.

The coroner's inquest was held this morning at the county morgue. No member of the family attended the inquest, and the coroner's jury returned a verdict that Marian was killed in the death of the hands of a person or persons unknown to the jury, acting with homicidal intent.

There were only three witnesses at the coroner's jury, Mrs. Holt, Dr. Frederick Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, and Detective Lieutenant W. W. Warren.

Dr. Wagner, who is a neighbor of the Parkers, was in tears. He said that it was yet impossible to tell if the little girl had been given any anesthetic or poison prior to the dissection of her body.

Suspect Jumps from Train.

Saugus, Cal., Dec. 18.—Special—A posse of 350 men tonight was combing the country near here for a man who, police say, may be the kidnapper of 12 year old Marian Parker in Los Angeles.

The man leaped from a speeding Southern Pacific train near here to-night to escape two deputy sheriffs who were searching the train for him.

Deputy Sheriff Bogardus shot as the man jumped and as he used a shotgun, it is believed and the suspect was wounded.

The search of the train for the man came after the chief of police at San Fernando wired Los Angeles that a man answering the description of the killer had boarded the train as it pulled out of the station to San Francisco.

Bogardus and a constable boarded the train at Newhall a few miles from here and proceeded through the cars seeking the man. As they entered the car in which he was riding he sprang from his seat, rushed into the vestibule of the kidnaper's warning.

Mrs. Padley pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was given the alternative of $10 fine or ten days in jail.

Chief Cline said there was no indica-

URGE ARREST OF LAKE FOREST MAN IN KIDNAP CASE

Chief of Police Lester Tiffany of Lake Forest yesterday telephoned to the Los Angeles police, urging that they strive to arrest Clarence Lowitz, 28 years old, in connection with the kidnapping and murder of 12 year old Marian Parker. This was before it became known the slayer had been identified.

The board of education of Lake Forest in January, 1926, offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of Lowitz, who is accused of attacking four girls after he had lured them, one by one, from the suburbs' schools and attacked.

by methods identical with those used by the man who kidnapped the Parker girl.

Lowitz was publisher of the North Shore Blue Book, a commercial directory, and was reportedly a $10,000 a year man. He formerly lived at 4016 Kenwood avenue, but after parents of one of his alleged victims had placed a formal charge of rape against him he fled and only vague traces have been found of him. Lake Forest has expended $1,000 in the search.

Shortly after Christmas Lowitz was alleged to have gone to the Gerton Inn, a hotel, which is stated to be allowed to take a 15 year old colored girl to her home, admitting that her mother was ill. The girl was taken to the forest preserve and attacked.

Mrs. LINDBERGH
FLYING TO SON;
MAKES ST. LOUIS

Party in Big Warm
Car Again Today.

(See back page.)
Mrs. Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived in St. Louis flying from Detroit today on the first part of her journey to Mexico City.

The trip from Detroit consumed five hours and forty-five minutes flying. When Mrs. Lindbergh stepped out of the warm car on the huge trimotor monoplane she was welcomed by a party of St. Louisans, including Col. M. Rixey, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Later over, Mrs. Lindbergh reported to "Louie's Place," a restaurant made famous by the fact Col. Lindbergh had breakfast there the morning he left St. Louis on the flight which eventually took him to Paris.

No Discomfort from Cold.

At the time she had found the trip cold, replied: "No, only when I get off the plane."

Two hours were required for the trip from Detroit to Indianapolis, where the party lunched, and the trip from Indianapolis to St. Louis made in 45 minutes.

Col. Lindbergh will remain here at night as the guest of Maj. and Mrs. W. R. Robertson. She will leave for San Antonio, Tex., the morning of the second lap of the flight.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 19.—(AP)—

"Every day something new and unexpected in my experiences in Mexico," said Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, after his return to Xochimilco and the "floating gardens."

"I know there is a much greater variety of life than in Europe, and Mexico has its own local color, which is welcome. I am enjoying myself very much." He said.

"There is no phase of life much to see in the days before the conference of Mexico. In an Indian canoe, and wading canals separating ancient pyramids, the canoes pass through constant verdure flowers. As they passed the na-

Seek Endurance Mark

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Roaming through the airways of California since $23 Sunday morning, the crew of the huge trimotor monoplane, Spirit of California, kept on tonight with high hopes of setting a new endurance flight record. The monoplane was running with motors idled down tonight as it approached the 36th hour. Heavy gasoline consumption during the day caused some alarm that exhausted fuel might force the plane down before it passed the endurance mark of 52 hours, 22 minutes, and 31 seconds, the present record.

Today the plane cruised through the Sacramento and upper San Joaquin valleys, with Lieut. George R. Pound, U. S. N., and Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith of Australia alternating at the controls.

At 5:27 p. m. a message was radiocated saying one of the generators on the plane was out of order, but this condition would not prevent the craft from continuing the endurance effort.

"We are in the north now and have no idea of the attractions of scenery and climate, the picturesque sights and contrasts of races and conditions here in Mexico. The airplane is destined in the near future to aid largely in making a great tourist center of Mexico."

PLAN $300,000 IMPROVEMENTS AT CITY AIRPORT

Aldermen Would Double Size of Field.

Prompted by Chicago's growing importance as an air center, the city council's finance committee took steps yesterday to double the size of the municipal airport and to spend $300,000 for its permanent improvement.

With a new field built on the lake front, as contemplated, the municipal field at 53rd street and Cicero avenue will be even more valuable than at present, Walter Wright, head of the bureau of parks and director of the field, explained. Every plane landing on the lake front will go to the west side field for refueling, repairs, and hangar facilities, he said.

Seeks Additional Track.

The city now uses the municipal field, a 320 acre tract, under a 10 year lease from the board of education which owns another 320 acre tract adjacent on the north.

The finance committee directed its real estate subcommittee to start negotiations with the board to add to the field the second tract and also to secure the third, a 320 acre tract, on the entire square mile or extensive area, 99 acres. One proposal was that the city might exchange for the field its title to the Clarendon beach property at Wilson avenue and the lake which the board wants as a junior and senior high school site.

Building and Runways.

Included among the improvements called for by Mr. Wright are a $50,000 administration building, runways and lights on the west side of the field costing $125,000; drainage of the east portion, $30,000, and a fence around the whole field, $20,000.

It was tentatively decided by the committees to either appropriate for the improvements from the 1928 corporate fund budget or provide for them in a bond issue to be submitted to the voters at the April primary.

TRIES TO HEAT ROOM DIES.

It was cold in his room on Lake Howard, 21st province, and gas heater was not working. At 5:30 Wilson street. After several hours the heat congealed all the oxygen in the air and he was found dead there by his family.

CRACKLING YULE LOG LIGHTS UP DIM DAYS OF YORE

But Modern Life Kills
Pre-Christian Rite.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

If you had been living, a weary time ago, in the bleak north, and had wished to do most particular homage to your most cherished god, the great Thor, it is quite possible that you would have chosen to light a mammoth fire, that its crackling flames might carry your message up to the sky.

And that is precisely what the ancient Scandinavians did. Their Yule, or Yule log, they called it. They burned it at that appropriately optimistic moment of the year—the winter solstice. (Dec. 21st it came to be)—when the short winter days begin to turn to the long summer days. The very word "Yule," which comes to us now as "yule," is believed to mean "wheel" and thus to symbolize the turning of the seasons.

A Transplanted Rite.

This burning of the Yule-log or clog, or block was a custom which, along with many others, was transplanted, but gently, into Christian rituals and Christmas festivities. It preserved its robust dignity against the ceremonies that Jesus Christ brought to England; saving the rite that St. Augustus brought to Kent. It survived a change of religion; but it could not withstand the assaults of progress.

With the coming of fifth floor flats and steam heated houses, and with the passing of the log burning fireplace, the Yule log has, of necessity, burned itself down to embers of remembrance.

So, this week, as we hear the children singing the same old carols, as we hang up the mistletoe, sacred from the days of the Druids; as we await Santa Claus, sprightly descendant of an aged gentleman; as we breath the vigor of 1927 into customs of antiquity and make them really live again, the Yule log, almost alone of the rites, must remain merely a mysterious echo.

But even if there were room to burn Yule logs, and even if there were forests full of them around the corner, this ceremony would still be a mystic affair.

Reaches Back for Agas.

Because of the traditions of the Scandinavian gods, the ceremony went to Britain, there to be kept high with superstition, and then was incorporated into the Christian Christmas festival.

In feudal times it was an impressive office, that of bringing home the Yule log. Huge and sturdy, most often of oak, as believed of the Druids, the massive cylinder was carried in solemn pomp from the forest, through the village street, up to the fireplace in the great hall. As a journeyman along every passageway tipped his hat in honor.

But why shouldn't he? For there before him was the log whose snapping flames would soon, as the ancient gods had sworn, burn out savings and wrongs. And it would cause the liquor in the big Wassail bowl to bubble high and sink deep all the old year's ends.

JEWS, CHRISTIANS EXCHANGE HOLIDAYS IN N. Y. POSTOFFICE

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Postoffice employees of the Christian faith in New York will be enabled to spend Christmas at their homes this year, due to the courtesy of their fellow Jewish workers.

The Rev. John J. Kirwan, chaplain of the New York Letter Carriers' association and the New York Post office Hobo Name society, today announced that as a result of an arrangement made with the Jewish Postal Workers' Welfare League, all Jewish postal employees would work on Christmas day in return for the Christian employees having worked on the Jewish holidays. In this manner, members of each faith are permitted to spend their holidays with their families.

strummed his harp and hymned a tune. A favored one, in the time of King Henry the VIII. (and now preserved in the Sloane manuscripts) was this "Welcome Yule." Welcome be Thou, heavenly King, Welcome here on this morning, Welcome for whom we shall sing, Welcome Yule.

Another popular ditty was Robert Herrick's:
Come bring with a noise,
My merry, merry boy,
The Christmas log to the firing,
My good dame, she
Bids ye all be free,
And drink to your heart's desiring.

Safeguard for the Home.

The second stanza, beginning "With the last year's brand light the new block," refers to a most rigidly observed rule.

Deep down in the cellar of every great house was the charred remnant of the last year's Christmas log. On Christmas eve it was brought up, lit again, and its light for the present year's more vigorous new fire.

This new one burns all the night through (and it's bad heat if it goes out), and in the morning the fire is put out and the precious part of the log is taken, with ceremony, to the cellar to wait a twelvemonth ere it comes again to the hearth and rounds out its function.

It is this everlasting bit of Yule log, down in the cellar which, the story goes, protects the house from fire throughout the year.

Where Egg-Nogg Begins.

In Devonshire for many years, perhaps even now, the log takes the form of the "ashen fagot." This is a bundle of ash sticks, hooped round with bands from the same tree.

Lord and lady, servant and milk maid; they all sit together on settles before the fire. There's the egg-hot—cider heated and mixed with eggs and cider, and not so different from the Scotch "hot-pint." Every time one of the fagot-hands makes a crack in burning wood, he tips a crack in the master of the house is bound to furnish forth a fresh bowl of egg-nog.

IT'S BY STREET CAR, NEAR DEATH.

George Green, 43, of 809 South State Street, was riding in a street car when it struck by a State street car as he was crossing the street at Roosevelt road last night. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

POPE CREATES 5 NEW CARDINALS, ALL NON-ITALIAN

Cardinal College Is Now
Evenly Divided.

BY DAVID DARAH.

Associated Press Service, Dec. 18.—Completely ignorant of political issues with temporal consequences of which have grown during the last year, Pope Pius announced an extremely circumstantial statement this morning at the consistory in the Vatican palace concerning the creation of five new cardinals. The new cardinals are non-Italian, the sacred college is now evenly divided, with 25 Italian and 25 non-Italian members.

The pope is expected to discuss the situation going on between L'Action Catholique and the French royalist paper, Vatican, also the Mexican church with the priests, and the negotiations recently undertaken between the Vatican and the Mussolini government.

What on Controversy.
The pope declared the assembly before him was worthy of hearing the pro and con on these subjects which he characterized as both good and bad, but declared the occasion speaking at present was not the time.

Nevertheless, the pontiff called an encyclical on Oct. 30 on the subject of nationalism, but did nothing. It since it was thought that the Vatican's views on nationalism would be offensive to at least some countries.

The cardinals present at today's assembly were: Mgrs. Alexis Henry of France, Raymond Roche of France, and Gheorghe of Hungary. The new cardinal is Mgr. Pedro Stenz, archbishop of Toledo, who receives his hat from King Alfonso of Spain.

Cardinal's Resignation.
In his speech expressed the desire the church has suffered during the year in the loss of three members of its sacred college. He accepted the loss, through resignation of Cardinal Billot of France, who gave up his cardinalship and became a simple priest because he disagreed with the pope's political policy and L'Action Francaise.

The pope declared he accepted Cardinal Billot's resignation after consulting with Secretary of State Caracciotti and the head of the secret office. At the public consistory the cardinals will be officially installed in their robes of office.

ON NORTHWESTERN.

COURT DIRECTS SURFACE LINES TO PAY $1,181,547

Judge Victor P. Arnold entered judgment yesterday against the Chicago Surface Lines for $1,181,547.61 for unpaid taxes on capital stock. Assistant State's Attorney James F. Clancy had brought suit to collect an aggregate of $2,193,456, the total assessment placed against the properties by the state tax commission.

"I think the evidence conclusive and it is undisputed that the tax commission in arriving at the assessment disregarded its own rules," Judge Arnold said. "There was plenty of available data as to the value of the stock of the defendant companies, but that was ignored."

Horace Wright Cook, attorney for the Surface Lines, said the $1,181,547 in taxes will be paid today.

The tax, as assessed by the state tax commission and as fixed by the court as fair, is shown in the following tabulation:

Company	State Tax	Current Assessment
Chicago Ry. ...	$96,100.00	$94,200.46
Calumet & R. C. Ry.	$90,600.72	$92,358.16
Chicago C. Ry.	764,304.67	696,118.97
Total	$1,181,548.49	$1,181,547.61

A slump of $17,859 revenue passengers on the Surface Lines during November compared with the same month last year caused the issuance of an unfavorable report yesterday. The gross earnings last month were $1,185,347, compared with $1,294,801 for October this year and $1,181,559 for November of last year.

HARRISON STIRS BELIEF HE WILL RUN FOR SENATE

L. Smith in the United States Senate caused a buzz of political speculation last night.

The gossip had its origin in a letter written by Mr. Harrison, who is in Paris, to a group of Illinois Democrats in reply to their appeal—that he throw his hat in the ring.

The candidacy of Mr. Harrison, should he choose to run, would be contingent upon two events, both of which at this time are matters of conjecture:

First, the Senate would have to definitely refuse to admit Mr. Smith, creating a vacancy to be filled at a special election. The second condition would be a ruling by the Supreme Court knocking out the new primary law.

MOVES IN COURT TO BAR SMALL AS CANDIDATE

Miller Attacks Change in Quo Warranto Act.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]
Springfield, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special]
—Attorney J. Bert Miller, state representative from the governor's home senatorial district, contended yesterday before the Illinois Supreme court today that Lee Small is barred from the third term for which he apparently intends to run.

Acting as a taxpayer, Representative Miller is seeking a writ of mandamus compelling State's Attorney Fullenwider of this county to file quo warranto proceedings to oust Gov. Small from office before the end of his present term.

Small arguments were heard this morning and it is possible a decision will be given before the end of the December term, which may be about Wednesday. The basis of the proceeding is the contention that at the time of his election in 1926, and his re-election in 1924, Mr. Small was disqualified by the constitution which bars from public office former collectors or holders of public money who failed to account for money due from them.

First Public Move.

But the argument that this same section stops Mr. Small from being elected in 1928, in spite of his recent payment of $650,000 in what has been called "delayed interest," was advanced publicly for the first time in Representative Miller's pie to the court.

His declaration was taken as a forecast of another stage of the battle he has waged vigorously and persistently against Lee Small for years.

It has been reported that he may seek to reopen the case settled by the payment of $650,000 in an effort to effect a larger payment, and now comes what is construed as a threat of proceedings to attempt to keep Mr. Small out of the gubernatorial nomination next year.

In fact, the Kanakaike representatives went almost far enough to say exactly that in his address to the Supreme Justice. Therein he several times referred to the governor as an embrasser.

Quotes Constitution.

Taking up the question of Gov. Small's eligibility, Representative Miller quoted the constitutional provision: "Collector or holder of public money who shall not have accounted for and paid over, according to law, all moneys due from him, shall not be eligible to hold any office, namely or to any office of profit or trust in this state."

"This is plain English," he continued. "Its meaning cannot be misunderstood. The provision of the constitution is self-executing. The Circuit court, as a court of original jurisdiction, can create its own machinery, if it sees fit to do so, and no statutory action can deprive such court of such authority."

The constitution brands Small as an embrasser. The statutes of this state brand him as such. The circuit court of Sangamon county so designated him; and this court has so held.

"With his ill gotten gains from the state treasurer he paved his way with gold to the governorship of Illinois in 1926. Then, by political manipulation and chicanery, he again paved his way with his hands to his second term in 1928, both in direct defiance of the constitution."

"From the time he retired from the office of state treasurer and forever after he was and is barred by this constitutional provision from legally holding any office for profit or trust in this state."

Tests Quo Warranto Amendment.

The immediate question placed before the court by the arguments of Representative Miller and State's Attorney Fullenwider was the constitutionality of an amendment to the quo warranto act passed through the last general assembly by Gov. Small, exempting himself and other constitutional officers from such proceedings.

State's Attorney Fullenwider has taken the position that this statutory amendment strips him from proceeding against the governor; that he is forced to regard it as unconstitutional until it is proven otherwise.

The petitioner's contention is that the amendment was unconstitutional because it constitutes special immunity to some state officers that it does not extend to others.

CICCOLINI'S $100,000
DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST HOPE HAMPTON FAILS

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special]—Guido Ciccolini, opera tenor in the Chicago and Boston companies, lost his $100,000 suit today against Hope Hampton, light opera star, for having used in "My Princess" a character of a roustabout singer by the name of "Ciccolini," which he thought was intended as a reflection on him. Justice Salvatore A. Cottolo, of the Supreme court, handed down a decision dismissing the tenor's suit against Miss Hampton; her husband, James Lullington, moving picture producer, and Alfred E. Aronson, theatrical manager, under whom the play had a short run in this city.

The musical play portrayed a vagabond singer as a heart breaker and referred to him as "a big wop."

Mr. Ciccolini married Miss Gladys Betty Gurney, daughter of William Supple of this city, and Oyster Bay, in 1918. He objected to this, he thought, as an effort to hold him up to ridicule and contempt. Mr. Brulatour had once tried to get him to sing that he popped to the top like a cork. He was on the point of death when he was dragged aboard the Falcon.

While emergency measures are taken to help the six endangered men with air supply, a great fleet will be collected over the submarine, prepared to attempt its salvage either by lifting it up with derricks or by floating with pontoons. Submarines are equipped at either end with that of maintaining a stoical calm and reducing their intake of air to the smallest amount that would sustain life. This is a feat of the greatest difficulty which can, however, be performed, as was demonstrated by Houdini in his coffin trick.

But this is a magician's trick that is not as simple for the unpracticed man, especially when suffering from a terrible strain and surrounded with every terror of the imagination.

Diver Has Narrow Escape.

But if the supply of oxygen can be conserved by great self-control and if the wind and water moderate there still is hope, first of relief, then of rescue. The minute that the underwater survivors become aware divers will be sent down with the hope of locating the air supply pipes leading to the compartment in order to pump fresh air in.

L. C. Michaels, a diver, was engaged in this task early this morning, moving about by electric torchlight under 100 feet of water, when his air and telephone lines became entangled in the twisted steel of the submarine. Unable to disentangle himself he signalled for help. Diver Eddie went down and freed him, and Michaels was able to escape.

"eyes" or holes drilled through solid steel, for the purpose of passing cables through to lift them in just such emergencies.

Derrick boats struggled unwillingly to heave up the S-4 when it sank off New London in 1918. The fact, however, that there is air in the compartment on the S-4 while the men are alive gives the divers a greater chance this time provided that good weather—a miracle at this time of year off the New England coast—makes it possible for the unsteady and tottering derrick boats, with their tall superstructures, to operate.

While three huge derrick boats neared Provincetown tonight, three other ships arrived with pontoons. Other rescue equipment was hurried from New York and Boston. This included underwater acetylene torches, which burn through submerged steel as if it were in the open air, and electrical equipment which cuts swiftly through metal under water.

The strategy of rescue work will depend not only on the condition of the sea but on the reports of the divers on

AS LAZARUS DID, BEN WILL ARISE, CULT DECLARES

King Dead; Burial Awaits
"Fourth Day."

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 19.—(UPI)—Silent in death—death that began last Friday and became silent today—the spirit of Ben Purnell, self-styled "seventh son and King of the House of David," still rules the faithful members of his colony at Benton Harbor.

All that is mortal of the man who died is gathered together in a casket.

He was buried in a iron cot in Shiloh, the administrative building of the House of David.

The faithful still believe in the teachings and await the rising of the dead, which they assert will come tomorrow morning at the fourth day after his death.

Burial Delay Granted.

In view of their conviction

though Purnell's temporal rule ended, he would rise from the dead to leave his body untouched for another twenty-four hours.

It will be until the fourth day.

H. T. Ladd, attorney, and devout son of Purnell, pleaded with Dr.

J. D. Dunn, health officer of Benton

Harbor, that the

"messiah cannot die."

FLAY HEARST IN SENATE FOR HIS MEXICAN 'EXPOSE'

Committee Members Call
Bribe Charge False.

establish its renown by bringing, or attempting to bring, dishonor upon men who are known to be pure and incorruptible."

Call Hearst "Without Honor."

Senator Norris began his letter to Hearst with the assertion that an analysis of the Mexican articles and of the Hearst testimony before the investigating committee "leads to the inescapable conclusion that they are not unfair and dishonest but that they are entirely without honor."

"These articles," said Norris, "show, on their face, a constant attempt to draw conclusions not justified from the articles themselves, and to practice deception upon the American people. It is not necessary to consider any other evidence in order to reach the fair conclusion that in them you are making statements which are not true, which are the character of some of our own officials and journalists, but that you are trying to excite an animosity and a hatred on the part of our people against the Mexican government, which, if your articles and alleged official documents were true, would inevitably lead to war between the two countries."

Says Publisher Feared Libel.

Senator Norris then proceeded to show from the Hearst testimony why the publisher deleted the names of the senators from the documents.

"The real reason why you pursued this course," said Norris, "was to save yourself from a libel suit, and the very fact that you took this course and did not name the senators did not have confidence in the genuineness of the documents which you were publishing, because, if they were genuine, you ran no risk in their publication. Your admission that in taking this course you had in mind the saving of yourself from damages in a libel suit is an admission that you believed, yourself, that these alleged official documents were forgeries."

Points Out Discrepancy.

Norris quoted again that the documents were brought to the United States by patriotic Mexican officials desirous to circumvent a Calles plot, whereas Hearst now says they were purchased from Mexican government clerks.

"What is your motive, Mr. Hearst?" Norris continued. "You have testified before the committee that you have very valuable properties in Mexico. It is almost common knowledge that you were in favor of the overthrow of the present government. You evidently believed that if a revolution would be started it would mean financial benefit for your investments in Mexico."

Easy Action to Grid.

"For the sake of making a few paltry dollars you are willing to blacken the character of honest journalists in your own profession. You were willing to cast suspicion upon the loyalty and integrity of members of the United States senate. You were willing to charge that the president of a friendly republic is a traitor to his country. You were willing and apparently anxious to do something that would cause our government to intervene in Mexico."

"In other words, for the sake of your financial investments you were not only willing to ruin the reputation of honest and innocent men, but you were willing to plunge our country into war with a friendly neighbor and thus increase the army of widows and orphans and wounded and crippled soldiers."

"Because members of the United States senate have not followed the course that you believe they ought to pursue, you were willing to go so far as to ruin their reputations and, by falsehoods, drive them from public life in disgrace and dishonor."

HEARST REPLIES

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—W. R. Hearst tonight issued a statement in reply to an open letter from Senator Norris of Nebraska regarding publication of documents by the Hearst newspaper.

Why Senators Weren't Told.

"It is not necessary to reply to Senator Norris' hysterical and vituperative statement in kind."

I might state, however, that if Senator Norris is anxious to establish the truth, he might begin by telling the truth, a thing that he has distinctly refrained from doing throughout his whole statement.

Call Documents Authentic.

"The plain facts of this whole Mexican matter are that these Mexican documents are apparently quite authentic and that no proof whatever has been produced of their law of authenticity."

"I might have, in the first place, refrained from publishing any of the documents, in which case, my possession of the documents would have been eventually known, and I might have been accused by persons as careless of facts as Senator Norris of having been too cowardly and too concerned for my property interests in Mexico to have revealed facts through the medium of my newspaper which affected the welfare of the American people and which the American people had a right to be acquainted with."

In the second place, I might have interviewed the senators mentioned and published their explanations in my newspapers, but I could not see, and cannot now see, how denials made in my newspaper would have any superior force or effect over denials made by them under oath before a governmental body.

Moreover, such a course would have necessitated the publication of the senators' names, and I was in no way adequately informed of the probable course of the government, and as to whether it ever would be considered necessary or desirable by the government to make public the senators' names.

"Therefore I mentioned no individual, but merely printed the documents deleted or names, and left the determination of that important point for the government."

Property in Mexico.

"It was only when the authenticity of the documents became almost overwhelmingly established—that publications of those properties would be communicated at the earliest possible moment by the Mexican government."

Denies Evil Motive.

"Finally, as to the alleged evil motive in endeavoring to reflect upon the insurgents in the senate through the publication of these documents, that seems to me to be the most assinine statement that can be picked out of Senator Norris' scrap heap of misrepresentation and billingsgate."

"My papers always have been in the main supporters of the insurgent group of senators."

"As a matter of fact, I am an insurgent myself and have always been and always will be an insurgent against whatever seems to be contrary to the interests of our government and the welfare of our people, and in sustaining those principles and that policy I published these Mexican documents, believing then and believing now that I did my simple duty, regardless of consequences to myself and considering merely the best benefit of the American people."

THE PROHIBITION WAR SHIPS.

The submarine S-4 was rammed and sunk Saturday night off Provincetown, Cape Cod, Mass., by the coast guard destroyer Paulding. One of the prohibition enforcement boats. The Paulding was on patrol outside the cape when the submarine came to the surface. At this writing the S-4 is on the bottom with some men still living and attempts are being made at rescue.

The Paulding was one of twenty-five destroyers of 740 or 1,000 tons displacement transferred to the coast guard service in response to prohibition demands that something more effective be done to break up the squadrons of rum carriers loitering in American waters to dispose of their cargoes. It was demanded of Washington that the navy be turned on the rum carriers to chase them off or sink them and to satisfy this the destroyers were given to the coast guard, in which service only light patrol boats had been used when the duty of the guard was that of its original purpose—the assisting of ships in distress, the destroying of derelicts, and the ordinary patrol against smuggling.

On occasions the coast guard since being charged with prohibition enforcement has revealed some of the excesses in operation displayed the country over by other prohibition agents. It has become notorious that the service of prohibition has engaged a less responsible class of men than enter other federal employment. It has invited an undesirable element which has proved lawless and at times murderous. The sanction of prohibition is given all manner of irregularities and with such encouragement outrages have become common.

The record of the coast guard itself in such enforcement is defended by the officers in command but it has been sharply challenged on occasions. The personnel ought to be better than the average of agents attracted by the opportunities in other fields of enforcement but the guard has given the redoubtless that dealing with Volstead violators is the chief concern. Such authority has lowered the standard of federal service wherever it has been extended and the coast guard is now a proper subject for inquiry.

The recklessness of prohibition agents has given these traits an outstanding characteristic of irresponsibility and lawlessness, condoned or praised by the prohibitionists and in many instances protected by the federal government which removes its killing agents from the jurisdiction of the state courts to the guardianship of its own. All the killings are not of available record but it has been estimated that official manslaughter may run into four figures.

Rear Admiral Billard of the coast guard says that only five persons have been killed by the guard. The service has had an honorable record but standards of competency, responsibility, and honesty are lowered everywhere prohibition enforcement is involved and it has become important to discover what may have happened in that way in a personnel which is allowed to handle United States weapons. Has it retained competence and responsibility?

The recklessness of prohibition agents may have been in the hands of cowards, corrupt sailors competent to handle it and with the submarine sunk by their ship the actions of such men would be known but without precluding them the disaster requires an inquiry into the standards now maintained by the guard since the dismoralizing element has entered the service. The men of the submarine have suffered heavily and it is due them that responsibility for their fate be established by exhaustive inquiry.

SILENCE WANTED.

Bennett J. Doty of Silcox, Mass., now on his way home from France and points south and east, is one of America's national heroes.

By contrast with his life of action in the American army during the war, Doty found a peaceful world elsewhere. He enlisted in the French Foreign Legion and went off to fight the Druses in Syria. In later interviews he explained that he enjoyed war. War in Syria, however, seemed to pall on him. He deserted. He was caught and sentenced to be shot. America was stirred immediately. Diplomatic and sentimental pressure was applied and Doty's sentence was commuted to eight years' imprisonment. After having served thirteen months he was pardoned on the strength of a letter from his father to M. Paineau, minister of war. He was returned to the legion in Africa to finish his sentence, but was again granted leniency and given his discharge.

Since then it has been reported that Doty's story of his adventures has been sold in advance. He is scheduled to start writing on his return home. The French are worried lest he return his favors by making a sensation out of the hard life in the legion where, in the words of our French correspondent, "the presence of the riffraff of twenty countries requires unique disciplinary measures."

Doty's intention of exploiting his experiences derests from a reputation already more too popular. There is nothing of the hero in helping a foreign country prosecute a war of expansion, then deserting the borrowed flag, and finally being saved only by having been born in America. The United States wished Doty to escape the firing squad as a matter of national principle and not because of any admiration for him. Also, a twist of fate in the publication of two popular novels about the legion and the showing of a motion picture based on one of them helped Doty's case immensely by focusing attention on the legion. The visit of the American Legion to France also assisted him. It was a matter of his that saved him.

Doty will find no spotlight waiting for any laurel wreath. The bloody bones adventure is still good fiction, but in real life he is out of date. There is plenty of action to be had by any ambitious young American in the United States army, navy or marine corps in China or Nicaragua, or on any police force at home. What the folks want from Mr. Doty is not a diary but plenty of silence.

THE HIGH COST OF SMOKE.

The proposal to drop the thirty smoke observers from the city's pay roll is a poor economy. Dr. Bundeisen, as health commissioner, organized a staff of inspectors whose duty it was to give instruction in proper methods of firing and to start proceedings against persistent offenders. Mayor Thompson transferred the smoke prevention work from the department of health to the department of boiler inspection and it was announced that the efforts of the inspectors would be concentrated upon education. The power to arrest and fine offenders would be allowed to lapse.

The changes in administration and in policy can be judged best by their results. Obviously the results have not been brilliant. The casual observer will be inclined to say there has been no great improvement over a year ago, although under Dr. Bundeisen's régime a steady improvement had been observable from year to year.

It would be doubly unfortunate if the new policy would result in the spread of the notion that smoke is not, after all, of much importance. Smoke in the city is more than a petty annoyance. It obscures the gulf killing rays of the sun to the detriment of public health. It places a heavy tax upon every individual and household in the city. The blight of smoke is doubly absurd in a community which is spending hundreds of millions of dollars of public and private money for parks and buildings, only to have the expenditure nullified in large part by smoke.

Smoke is not, as it was once thought to be, the inevitable consequence of industrial and commercial activity. Modern power plants do not smoke and neither do properly designed heating plants in capable hands. Expert testimony leaves little doubt that the fuel lost in smoke would pay the cost of smoke prevention. The ignorance and inertia which are chiefly responsible for the pollution of Chicago's air need no encouragement from public authorities. In recent years the atmosphere in Chicago has shown much improvement. We are no longer in a class with St. Louis and Pittsburgh. A relapse is what we do not need.

NAVY PIER.

The proposal to rename the Municipal pier Naval pier is a good one. Navy pier would be better, but that is a minor point. Chicago has no conspicuous monument to the United States navy and the men who have served in it. There should be one, comparable in size and dignity to Soldiers' Field. The pier houses thousands of navy men in training during the war and is therefore entitled to the new name on its record.

The rededication is planned for next spring. Every fighting unit in the fleet which can squeeze into the Welland locks should be present. Canada surely will raise no objection under the treaty. We can hope to see the destroyers and submarines and even some of the cruisers. Naval aviation can, of course, be fully represented.

Chicago will give the fleet the same kind of welcome it gave the cadets at the Army-Navy game. Chicago will be the richer for a brilliant spectacle and the navy will have won friends in the interior of the country. Support for navy appropriations will be easier to obtain in the middle west if the middle west sees with its own eyes what the money is used for.

MASSACRE IN CANTON.

The Chinese Nationalists having retaken Canton from the peasant and labor communists, proceeded to a thorough massacre of the native Reds. It is reported that a number of Russians were included, with some soviet agents. Things were made un pleasant for other Europeans and for Americans caught in the city and suspected of soviet connivance.

An incensed Chinese soldier is an almost complete survival of early Asiatic barbarity and its respect for humanity is nil. It finds butchery more congenial than the Russian Reds did and, in the early revolutionary mopping up of the unfortunate and miserable aristocrats, intellectuals, shopkeepers, and small propertied people of Russia, Chinese executioners were imported and employed as the most expert to be had for the work. They did not need much instruction from their employers to recognize massacre as an advantageous public policy, but whatever they did need the Reds could train them. It is a hideous story from Canton, but there is little in it inconsistent with soviet theory and practice.

THE SOCIAL REGISTER.

(New York World.) The Social Register association has discontinued the publication of volumes for eleven cities on the ground that in these places there was "a lack of interest in being listed," which, translated into plain English, appears to mean a lack of interest in buying the books. Why? Some one suspects, society in this country has virtually ceased to exist. We probably do not realize what an artificial thing it was, anyway. Since Ward McAllister proclaimed the Four Hundred we have more or less taken it for granted, but the truth is that there never was any Four Hundred, and the notion that there was a well defined group to which some belonged and others did not belong has always been more or less a fiction.

Perhaps it was not an utter fiction up to the end of the soup and fab era. But for years since the dinner coat has replaced its pretentious predecessor, since a nine course dinner has come to be regarded as a monstrosity, since all formality has been relegated to an easy informality, the old idea of an aristocratic society has been abandoned, too. Furthermore, the number of persons obviously qualified to pass in any society has greatly increased—so much so that nobody can pretend to know them all or persuade himself that his particular group is the one and only genuine group. Thus society automatically passes, for the mark of society is exclusiveness, and if it is no longer exclusive it is no longer society. It may exist in social registers, blue-books, or fashion magazines, but nobody with any sense really believes it.

WEADING OUT HOKUM IN HEARING DEVICES.

HERE is a very great promise for help in the proceedings of the 1927 meeting of the American Federation of Hearing. Hard of Hearing. There is also something more than promise in these proceedings found in the Voita Review for October, 1927. The results of two types of investigation of hearing devices now on sale are found in this volume.

The spectacles and eyeglasses is on a very satisfactory basis. There is very little room possible about it. Occasionally the designs are run campaigns to proclaim the types of frames, shape of lenses, and other accessory factors, but, so far as the lens itself is concerned, that is almost as staple as flour. Everybody has a pretty definite idea as to what glasses can do and what their limitations are. But when it comes to the field of hearing devices the spirit of Barnum is still strong.

Now is the time when a hideous conspiracy exists in every family and strange parcels and bundles are hidden under sofas and behind the radio. No one can make a move without a shout going up, "Don't you look in there!" or "You keep away from that drawer!" The only person who can run afoul around the house without causing a riot is father. The poor old boy won't get any presents anyhow, except two neckties and a pair of bedroom slippers and, oh, shucks, you can buy them Saturday night.

No Alibi, Please.

RELL: As the street car turned east at Forty-seventh the polite little man hanging onto the strap swung a long hand and then landed in a lady's lap. "Oh, pardon me," cried the P. L. M.

"It was so sudden I thought you were going straight down Cottage Grove." "Don't make no difference if we WAS," retorted the lady, ya couldn't sat in my lap!" ORACLE.

OH, THEN, THERE WAS SOME DELAY.

E. H. L.: "C'mon over and I'll give you some dictation," chirped I to one of the office skirts. "Can't take it," says the 20th century Amason. "Writin' letters for the Big Cheese and he's in a hurry. Got enuf letters to give a typewriter cramps." "Oh, 'all right," says I, "all right. Get your letters out on time. Just wanted to put a memo for a $10 raise for you, that's all. But you ain't got time for that smother day. Plenty of time for that, then." Gosh, Dick, how a Big Cheese does roar when he doesn't get his letters right off the bat.

KAINSTOCK.

WELL, OF COURSE, dear heart, if you want to give him a book for Christmas we would suggest that you give him the one just written by the conductor of this Column of Calumny. It's a lovely book with pictures by a famous artist and everything. It would be a much appreciated Christmas present. However, as the book will not be on the bookstalls and consequently not for sale until Feb. 4, perhaps if your boy friend likes biography, give him Andrew Jackson, an Epic in Homespun, by Gerald W. Johnson. Here's a fine piece of writing about one of the greatest and most spectacular figures in American history. Not, light of our life, that we think Andrew Jackson has anything on our book, but, as we said before, or as we should have said before, it's only five days until Christmas and it's fifty-seven days until our book bursts out. So Andy wins in a walk.

Anyhow, there's so few of them that you'd better make inquiries either at your book store or The Tribune Pub. Serv. Office, No. 1 South Dearborn street. THE MODEST VIOLET SPEAKS RIGHT UP.

To Oswald's Female Admirers: A little thing needs explanation. Oswald's birthday, as you know, is December 26. He has just discovered this date is also celebrated in various provinces as Christmas Day. Consequently, he has received a great many letters from bewildered women who wish to send him a birthday gift, yet demand the opportunity of sending a Christmas present as well. The solution is simple. Send two presents. I'm sure he'll understand. Now of course, the gift (or gifts) for Oswald should exceed the value of the picture, and I am sure he has said the lovely photo is just too precious for anything! Please bear this in mind when shopping. The writer again wishes Oswald a bountiful birthday and oh! such a Merry Merry Christmas!

REMUS PAINTS SELF TO JURY AS HOME DEFENDER

Free Me or Send Me to Chair, His Final Plea.

BY O'KEEVE DWYER.
(Chicago Tribune Free Service.)

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—He said he wanted no quarter. He even implied that he only looked for justice, and he told the jury if they thought he ought to go to the electric chair to send him there.

"The defendant does not desire any sympathy or compassion; if you feel that he should be electrocuted do your duty and do not flinch. The defendant will not flinch—he has suffered."

The defendant stands before you because he defended his home and the sanctity of his home. If that is a crime, punish him."

The speaker was George Remus addressing the jury today in his trial for the killing of his wife, Imogene, in Eden park, on Oct. 6. The words were his final plea to the jury that will decide his fate. The prosecution will finish its final arguments tomorrow, and the case is expected to go to the jury about noon.

Remus Appears Unshaved.

Remus seemed unshaved as he addressed the ten men and two women to send him to the chair if they considered he deserved it. The entire closing argument of the former "bootleg king" was an arraignment of the Volstead law that he set out ten years ago to violate. Through the rattling speech a glimmer of bitter despairing of the woman he killed and of Frankita Dodge Jr., whom he has accused of alienating his wife's affection.

"A merry Christmas to you. I thank you," were Remus' parting words to the jurors.

Touches on "Unwritten Law."

"As you go home," he told the jury toward the end of his speech, "bear this in mind: You ladies and men are the defendant's judge, and only God is your judge. But for the power of God the defendant would not be here today. Our family, our offspring, our homes are our priceless possessions, and we, the men, defend them. If there is a man, woman among you who would not spring to the defense of that which is more beautiful than all art can produce, then punish this defendant."

Remus repeatedly referred to the Volstead law. He called it a gross legislative mistake. "If this defendant goes down to oblivion," he said once, "then it will be as a martyr to the awful mistake."

He had been insisting that Remus always sold good liquor. The prosecutors objected to that. They reflected also to his talk about the Volstead law. But that didn't deter Remus.

"Never in the annals of criminality," he shouted, "has one defendant been in nine different penal institutions for the violation of one law."

Call Dry Act "Atrocious."

And, after a moment, he added: "This atrocious bit of legislation that is making hypocrites of our judges, our prosecutors—of us all."

"It (the Volstead act) gives these $1,000 a year men the right to ravish your home and yours under the guise of looking for liquor," he told the jury at another time.

Remus talked a good deal of the "bootleg king" days, based upon which his defense is based. He tried hard to show the jury the killing of his wife in broad daylight in the rush hour of the morning could not have been premeditated. He argued he must have been crazy.

He referred to Dodge as "that ace among dry agents that duce among his fellow men." He called him a "social parasite" and a "mean laper."

Remus failed to argue with the court about taking up his trial with objections.

He had only been allotted two hours. The court assured him he would be given extra time.

He said he didn't take the stand in his own defense, because "if I did, you ladies and men of the jury would be here for another ten to fourteen days. And besides, the names of 200 to 400 respectable men and women have been dragged inevitably into the Remus case."

Will Go to Jury Today.

Assistant Prosecutor Carl Basler spoke for the state after Remus had finished. He spoke of Remus bootlegging operations and then touched on testimony that Dodge had said Remus had given the late Jess Smith $250,000 for the purpose of bribing former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty.

"Don't you suppose it requires some inside influence from the top down to run such a bootlegging organization as Remus ran?" Basler asked the jurors.

"If he paid the attorney general $250,000, it is safe to assume he paid a lot of others a lot more."

Prosecutor Taft asked the court to rule out the "not guilty" form of verdict, citing Ohio decisions under which he contends the court may do so. The court has not indicated what he will do.

ADMIRAL WOULD CLOSE STATION AT GREAT LAKES

Magnuder Again Scores Naval Expense.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special]—Admiral Thomas F. Magruder continued his slashing offensive against naval waste and inefficiency with an appeal for the abolition of all naval yards on the Atlantic coast with the exception of those located at Norfolk, and Philadelphia.

Appearing as a witness before the naval affairs committee, the fiery chief of the present administration told his audience that millions could be saved annually if unnecessary ships were eliminated. Two eliminated by the committee were the naval yards at Boston and New Bedford, which had been scrapped and duplicating divisions in the naval bureaus at Washington eliminated.

World Class Great Lakes.

Initially, Admiral Magruder urged the abolition of naval yards at New York City and Portsmouth, N. H., and the closing down of the yard at Newport, R. I. In addition he wanted four hospitals maintained at unnecessary stations and yards should be leased to the veterans' bureau.

Because of naval activities at Philadelphia, New York, and Charlestown, where the government a total of $100 million annually, Admiral Magruder said. He also pointed out that the Great Lakes station cost $2,500,000 to operate last year, and the station and hospital at Newport, $7,000,000. Closing the hospitals and cutting down the number of high ranking officers would save millions more, the admiral said.

Admiral Magruder criticised the naval plan for use of the fleet in time of war as not always "based on sound strategic principles he would like to see employed." He said the relationships now with the nations in the Atlantic should be simplified.

"In my opinion," he said, "the preparation could be simplified in such a way that would not in any way interfere with an expansion in time of war. The naval force should be simplified, destroyed, and sound."

Eleven flag officers could command the fleet. "Now, we have fifteen who are required affect."

Interest was manifested by members when the admiral asked to let the navy yards which should be scrapped. Pre-

SENATE HOLDS BACK QUIZ INTO PUBLIC UTILITY FINANCING

Washington, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Delay in final action on the Walsh resolution for a general investigation of the financing of public utility corporations was voted today by the Senate, 44 to 34.

On motion of Senator Moses, (Rep., N. H.), the measure was referred to the Interstate commerce committee for preliminary consideration, despite the protest of its author, Senator La Follette [Rep., Wis.], that it be sent directly to the audit and control committee for an approval merely of the expense that might be involved in the inquiry.

Senator Wheeler, (Dem., Mont.), a member of the Interstate commerce committee, warned senators that if they voted to send the resolution to that committee they would vote "to defeat the investigation until it will be late for action at this session."

Yard scrapping program because he did not wish to antagonize the congressmen representing the districts where naval yards are maintained.

But today the admiral refused to have burned his bridges. Throughout his testimony he spoke out his views without regard for the feelings of those he hit. "I am of the opinion," he said, "that the peacetime needs of the fleet may very well be met by retaining in active operation three navy yards—one at Boston, one at Philadelphia and one at Norfolk.

World Contract for Ships.

The Portsmouth, N. H., yard is used now principally for building submarines. Should the construction of warships be let by contract, and I am firmly of the opinion that this should be naval policy, the necessity for keeping this yard in operation disappears. Of course, would be needed if the government persisted in what I believe to be a wasteful policy of building warships in our navy yards.

"I would also give up the New York navy yard. To some this will appear a radical idea. However, the physical value of that yard is so great that it could be disposed of entirely at no great loss to the government and the Philadelphia yard is so well equipped and so well situated that it readily could be expanded to do the work that otherwise would be done at the New York yard.

The Yard at Charlestown.

"The Charlestown yard is not now used sufficiently to justify its maintenance in operation. It could and would be used in time of war, so that I recommend that it be placed on an inoperative basis until some great emergency arises."

In explaining why he would retain the Boston and Norfolk yards, Admiral Magruder again stressed the difficulty of lack of an adequate naval base on the Atlantic and urged that such a base be constructed at Hampton Roads.

"In any campaign in the Atlantic," he said, "it is essential to have sufficient room and depth of water for mooring a large fleet. The second essential is that the base must be such as to be easily protected from submarine and other forms of attack.

"On the east coast of the United States there are two bays that fill these requirements. One is Narragansett Bay and the other is Hampton Roads. I favor the latter because it already has a base and navy yard there and it would cost much less to fit out a fleet base there than at Narragansett Bay.

To make of Hampton Roads a proper base for the fleet in war time will not require more than an expenditure of perhaps $20,000,000. In my judgment, the establishment of such a base on the Atlantic is a fundamental requirement for preparation for war.

Would Retain Boston Yard.

"I would also retain the Boston yard as it is well situated strategically for naval submarines and destroyers in time of war. It is well defended and by virtue of the Cape Cod Canal and Long Island sound destroyers and submarines based on Boston could readily be concentrated for the protection of Boston and New York."

In urging the elimination of the Great Lakes and Newport training stations Admiral Magruder said:

"We now have four training stations, one at Newport, one at Great Lakes, another at San Diego, Cal., and the fourth at Hampton Roads. It would, in my opinion, be the part of economy to concentrate the training in two stations, one on the east coast and one on the west coast. I favor Hampton Roads and San Diego."

Admiral Magruder named six carriers which he declared most costly to operate than should economically be expended. These ships, he said, are the Pittsburgh, flagship of the Asiatic fleet; the Rochester, flagship of the special service squadron; the Cleveland, the Denver, the Galveston, and the Tulsa.

Admiral Magruder will be questioned by members of the committee tomorrow. At the beginning of its session today Chairman Butler (Rep., Pa.) said the country has spent $2,000,000,000 on naval establishments abroad.

BANK OFFICIAL KILLED, BANDITS FLEE WITH $10,000

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 18.—(AP)—John W. Hopson, assistant cashier of the Hodiamont bank, was shot and killed and John G. McCool, chief bookkeeper, was shot in the chest and seriously wounded today by five robbers who held them up three blocks from the bank and escaped with between $10,000 and $15,000.

Hopson and McCool were carrying the money from the Bank of University City to the Hodiamont bank. The windows of the sedan were shot out.

Nebraska City Robbery.

Two men held up the Nebraska City National bank today, locked six persons in a vault, and received with $2,000 in cash and approximately $50,000 worth of government bonds. The bandits were unmasked, but heavily armed.

ANOTHER SESSION OF M'ANDREW HEARING TODAY

The war of the Chicago police upon Alphonse Capone and other gangsters yesterday had settled into the stationary stage, with the police holding their lines about the homes of their enemies and apparently ready to dig in for the winter.

Four houses were being guarded last night. Leading the list was that of Capone at 7344 Prairie avenue. Sentinels were also established at 2553 Lunt avenue, where Joseph Aiello, chief of Capone's gangland enemies, resides; 4442 West Washington boulevard, the residence of Antonio Lupo, and 4888 South Hermitage avenue, the home of Joseph Saltis, the south side beer chiefman.

Capone himself was not at home. Neighbors reported that despite the watchfulness of the police he had calmly stepped out on Sunday, climbed into his large, expensive automobile and departed.

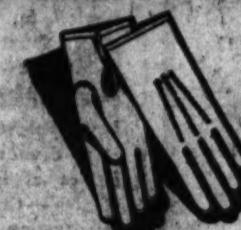

Saltis and one of his lieutenants, John (Dingbat) Obera, who were taken into custody in a saloon Saturday evening, were released at the detective bureau after they furnished bond on charges against them—carrying concealed weapons for Saltis and disorderly conduct for Obera.

ANOTHER SESSION OF M'ANDREW HEARING TODAY

More teachers and principals will testify against William McAndrew, suspended superintendent of schools, when the sixteenth session of his trial before the board of education convenes this afternoon.

Frank S. Rightmeyer, the board's attorney, announced yesterday 59 such witnesses are ready.

The session today probably will be concluded by six o'clock, Mr. Rightmeyer predicted. Opposition of trustees to a repetition of last week's nine hour session was given as his reason.

1,300 NAMES ON GUEST ROLL FOR VETERANS' PARTY

Expect 3,000 to Attend Christmas Event.

More than 1,300 guest cards had been issued last night by the invitation committee for the Tax Tsar's dinner and entertainment on Christmas day in the Hotel Sherman for ex-service men and their families.

With such a demand for reservations after only two days of work, Howard P. Savage, chairman of the committee, declared that the anticipated guest list of 3,000 will have been filled by Thursday night when the 650 members of the Forty and Eight meet in the Hotel Sherman for a final report on the number of invitations they have placed in their districts.

Legion Posts Active.

Most of the reservations yesterday were made through commanders of Legion posts and heads of the women's auxiliary units who are placing invitations in the hands of those who are able to attend the fete. Ex-service men who called at the veterans' bureau were also directed to the committee.

Edward F. Kee, past vice president of the Forty and Eight, has issued a statement encouraging veterans to attend the affair.

"Never in my Legion experience," Mr. Kee wrote, "has there been offered such a splendid opportunity to give actuality to the spirit of mutual helpfulness of the Legion. It is up to Legionnaires, Forty and Eightites, the women's auxiliaries, and service folk generally to do everything in their power to make Tax Tsar's Christmas a tremendous success."

Savage to Be There.

Mr. Savage told the committee yesterday that he has been attending the dinner and the afternoon performance of W-G-N entertainers rather than accept any one of a half dozen other invitations he has for the day. James C. Russell, chef de gare of the 40 and 8, and executive secretary of the committee, will be there, as well as most of the vice chairmen and the members of the executive committee.

BUNDESEN NAMED HEALTH CHIEF OF SANITARY BOARD

Outlines His Program for New Post.

Dr. Herman N. Bunedesen, former commissioner of health, was appointed director of health of the sanitary district by the trustees at their meeting yesterday. The salary stipulation was reported to be between $12,000 and $15,000.

The offer of the position was made to Dr. Bunedesen two weeks ago. His appointment came yesterday immediately after he accepted.

The new health director will supervise all matters of health related to lake diversion and sewage disposal plants. His immediate program, he announced after his appointment, will include a mosquito abatement campaign, the freeing of drinking water from objectionable taste and odors.

Publication of a general health bulletin covering matters of sanitation, and the providing of safe bathing beaches and healthful recreation spots in an effort to reduce the death rates of the lakeside communities.

"Dr. Bunedesen is splendidly equipped to serve as our consultant in sanitary matters," T. J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district, said after the appointment by the trustees. "He is a great sanitarian and his services will be invaluable in the development of our community health program."

Provision for the construction of a bridge across the drainage canal at Harlan avenue near Summit was included in the sanitary district's 1928 budget at yesterday's meeting. Work on the bridge, which will cost approximately $1,500,000, may be started within the next six months, Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer, told the trustees.

which may prevent years of needless suffering and assure longer life!

IF YOU would live to a ripe old age, have healthy children and otherwise lead a happy, useful life, it will pay you to take the simple precaution of making sure you are free from "Social" Diseases.

For a well-known authority on these diseases asserts that they shorten human life from ten to twenty years. One of them, according to the American Social Hygiene Association, is the greatest killer of all diseases, contributing directly or indirectly to almost 300,000 deaths in this country every year.

Not only do "Social" Diseases cut years from life, but they frequently lead to partial or complete disability. Between them they are responsible for a large percentage of blindness, insanity, paralysis, heart disease and crippling rheumatism. Worse still, they are the foremost cause of still-born and defective infants.

Unfortunately, a great many victims of "Social" Diseases are entirely unaware of their infection. For both diseases can be acquired innocently and often do not disclose their true nature until serious harm has been done. Thus thousands of Chicago men and women are unconsciously permitting "Social" Diseases to impair them in body and mind.

This perilous condition could soon be abolished if every man and woman in Chicago would be examined for "Social" Diseases at the earliest possible moment. Your family physician can give you the necessary tests at small cost, or you can get them at the Public Health Institute.

Realizing that its greatest value to the community lies in preventing the spread of "Social" Diseases rather than in treating them, the Public Health Institute is eager to be of service to those who wish to be examined purely as a precautionary measure. Such persons are examined with the utmost privacy in a department entirely apart from those in which regular patients are treated.

Operated NOT FOR PROFIT, the examination and treatment fees of the Public Health Institute are so very moderate as to be within the reach of all. A staff of 32 registered physicians assures prompt attention at any time between 10:00 A.M. and 8:00 P.M., daily except Sunday.

Unless a recent examination has proved you to be free from "Social" Diseases, be examined without delay. It is especially important that you be examined if you are married or are contemplating matrimony.

Women and Children

A special department exclusively for women and children, with men and women physicians in attendance, is located at 72 E. Randolph St. Every facility is provided here for effective treatment, and the utmost privacy with the highest degree of comfort is assured.

Illustrated booklet sent FREE

A frankly written illustrated booklet, telling more about the menace of "Social" Diseases and the Public Health Institute's unequalled facilities for their treatment, will be sent FREE to any resident of Chicago. Address Public Health Institute, 159 North Dearborn Street, Chicago.

VALUES ESTATE OF VAN VECHTEN AT $6,000,000

Inventory Shows Banker's Careful Program.

Investment policies of the late Ralph Van Vechten, whose financial advice as president of the State Bank of Chicago was solicited by capitalists for more than two decades, yesterday were disclosed in an inventory of his $6,000,000 estate filed before Assistant Probate Judge Leon Edelstein.

Investments Widely Spread.

The inventory discloses that he had the bulk of his estate invested in a wide variety of securities. Yet Mr. Van Vechten made numerous purchases of speculative stocks. These were in relatively small amounts.

Most of the stocks in the estate are classified in the inventory as good investments. Still there are some listed as doubtful risks and others as desperate.

Mrs. Fannie Van Vechten of 2344 Lincoln Park West, his widow, was left the bulk of the estate, while his brother, Carl Van Vechten, novelist, and his wife, Fannie Marinoff Van Vechten, also were remembered in the will. Miss Duane Van Vechten, the banker's only child, shared with her mother the estate.

Typical Good Stocks.

Typical of the holdings classified as good are the following:

75 Chicago Trust Co., $100 par.

BANKER IS SENT TO PRISON FOR $60,000 THEFT

Delbert Smith, 31, of 5511 Everett avenue, former manager of the bond department of the Chicago American Savings bank, 6 West Garfield boulevard, was sentenced to the penitentiary term of from 1 to 10 years after he entered a plea of guilty before Judge William V. Brothers in the Criminal court to a charge of embezzling approximately $60,000 from his employer.

Smith, a Notre Dame graduate, was on his way to the penitentiary in less than a week from the time his crime was discovered. The deficit in his account was revealed last week when the annual audit of the bank's books was made.

He admitted taking the money, but gave no reason for so doing. Bank authorities said that living above his means was the only explanation they could give for the embezzlement. He is married and the father of an infant child.

WOMAN, 72, IS KILLED BY GAS.
Mrs. Eliza Phillips, 72, of 721 Monroe avenue was asphyxiated in the kitchen of her home. Her body was found by her granddaughter, Dorothy Phillips. Gas burner was open and is believed to have been extinguished when a kettle boiled over.

BRITISH BISHOPS DEBATE BONDS OF STATE ON CHURCH

See Parliament's Vote
Due to Fear of Rome.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The most momentous meeting of the bishops of the Anglican church since the reformation began today at Lambeth palace, London, the official residence of the archbishop of Canterbury, to discuss the situation created by the action of the house of commons in passing out the new prayer book.

It had been passed by an overwhelming majority by all the church assemblies and the house of lords. All the bishops were present, and the meeting will be continued tomorrow and probably for several days.

The bishops must decide on action to protect their authority, which was threatened by parliament, by a majority of "Jews, infidels, and non-conformists." The new prayer book has been passed by an overwhelming majority by all the church assemblies and the house of lords. All the bishops were present, and the meeting will be continued tomorrow and probably for several days.

"The present situation in England is one of the most favorable signs the church has shown in a generation," declared the Rev. Howard Brinker, rector of St. Bartholomew's church and president of the Episcopal clergy's round table. "The debate accompanying the action on the prayerbook shows a renewed interest in the church that will be felt along the line."

"Dissentership would be one of the best things that ever happened to the church of England. I have favored it since I first began studying the history of the church."

The Rev. Duncan H. Browne, of St. James' church, stated that in his opinion, "dissent from the state would be a good thing, a gain rather than a loss to the church."

"A great many members of the church," he added, "would welcome such a dissolution."

CHICAGO CLERGYMEN FAVOR SEPARATION OF BRITAIN, CHURCH

Sentiment among Episcopal clergymen in Chicago favors disestablishment of the Church of England from the state, it is indicated by statements commenting on the recent rejection by the British house of commons of the recently revised prayerbook. Predictions of such a separation have been widely made in both countries.

Bishop Named by Premier.

The Protestant minority is supporting the establishment and will have the help of the nonconformists and the rest who are interested in keeping Great Britain from any alliance of an alliance with Rome. Sir William Johnson-Hicks, the home secretary, who led the Protestant forces in the house of commons Thursday, is demanding that the Catholics go to Rome, leaving the establishment to the Protestants, with whom he hopes that the nonconformists will be reunited.

dom for the church from state control will come from the Catholic party in the church.

Sir William Johnson-Hicks, the home secretary, who led the Protestant forces in the house of commons Thursday, is demanding that the Catholics go to Rome, leaving the establishment to the Protestants, with whom he hopes that the nonconformists will be reunited.

Bishop Named by Premier.

The anomaly of the appointment of bishops by premiers who may or may not be Anglicans, has not worked so well as might be expected. For instance, Ramsay MacDonald, a Presbyterian, as premier appointed the bishop of Birmingham and Chelmsford. The bishop of Birmingham is the famous modernist Dr. E. W. Barnes, who lately has been the center of controversy. The bishop of Chelmsford is a mild adherent to the Catholic party.

David Lloyd George, having had a longer run in office, has called a dozen bishops to his credit. Among them are the bishop of St. Albans, who is practically a Roman, the bishop of Durham, who is a modernist, and Lord William Cecil, bishop of Exeter. Lord William Cecil is a Protestant, although his brothers, the marquess of Salisbury and Viscount Cecil, are with the Catholic party.

The archbishop of Canterbury and the bishop of London, both of whom are Catholics, date back to Lord Salsbury, father of the three Cecils. The archbishop of York, also a Catholic, is an Asquith appointee. The most notable of the Baldwin appointments was the bishop of Truro, the Rt. Rev. Walter Howard Frere, who is a member of a moderate organization.

There will be all sorts of rumors about the action of the bishops, but none have been confirmed. Most persistent is the rumor that the bishops intend to reaffirm the new book and order the clergy to use it, defying parliament. Against this is the well known love for compromise of the archbishop, who thus would be ending a long career by defying the state and probably defying the church, in his 80th year.

Another report is that the bishops will send the book back unchanged to the house and demand that it be passed in committee in which the ecclesiastic arm has no right to interfere. That, however, only would be intensifying the crisis, for the Protestant party now has tasted blood and is determined to root out the Catholic doctrine in the church.

Woman Has Salesman Held on Auto Theft Charge

Joseph J. Niles, used car sales manager for an automobile concern at 223 South Michigan avenue, was arrested yesterday upon the complaint of Miss Charlotte Kell of the McCormick hotel, 518 Rush street, who charged him with the theft of her machine, in which he was found riding. Niles told police that he recognized the car as one stolen six months ago from his shop. Miss Kell produced a bill of sale, however, to prove that she had purchased the automobile. The salesman was released under $2,500 bond to appear in court this morning.

Let Mr. Thompson order your lunch today!

Because human nature is pretty much the same everywhere, I believe I can be of real help to you this noon.

Don't you often order what the other person takes for the simple reason that you can't think of anything you'd like better?

For 36 years we've been studying the subject of foods—what people like to eat, what they should eat, what we can serve that will satisfy both needs. For we're thoroughly convinced that the volume of work one can do—and the quality of it—depends in large measure upon proper diet.

We feature special combination meals because we know they are both appetizing and satisfying. In other words, they contain sufficient calories and essential vitamins to make a wholesome, properly balanced meal.

Tastes differ, so we provide a wide variety of these tempting, balanced meals. You'll find several listed on this page.

If you do strenuous work outdoors, Thompson's Luncheon No. 1 will satisfy a good healthy appetite. If your work is indoors, you'll like Luncheon No. 2, which is just as wholesome and satisfying, but not quite so substantial.

Every item of food served at Thompson's is the choicest to be had—the kind of meat, fruit, and vegetables you would select for your own table. Our pies and bread are made as your own are made. Milk and butter for Thompson's must grade higher than required by city law. We consider that the finest quality we can obtain is not too good for the patrons of Thompson's.

Enjoy lunch or dinner in one of the conveniently located Thompson's Restaurants, today. It will be our pleasure to see that you are served courteously, and without delay.

Following a custom established last year, every skater who competes in Tom Tatsuji's twelfth annual Silver Skates Derby at Washington park on Jan. 21 and 22 will be given a bronze button, a souvenir of the event.

Contestants must face the starter in the heats of the various races to obtain these buttons. When racers are lined up for the start, one of the officials will present each entrant with a button. These souvenirs can be worn in the lapel of a coat or fastened to a belt or the edge of a sweater coat.

Although announcement of the race was made only last Sunday, a large batch of entries already has been received. As usual, the smaller boys who will race in the Juvenile and Junior Derbies are topping the list of entrants. The young lads are full of enthusiasm and numbers of them already have started to practice on the Midway and other places where ice is available.

No entry fee is necessary. The only requirement is to clip the blank appearing on the sports pages and mail it as directed.

Chicago Agog Over Spanish Jai Alai Game

Press representatives of Fred Mann, who is to present the Spanish game of jai alai to the Chicago public for the first time tomorrow night at his newly constructed Rainbow fronton, 4116 North Clark street, continue to report that the public is all a-tingle at the prospect.

After the grand opening tomorrow night, the sport of Spainards will do their stuff every night and Saturday matinees. This will give the public no excuse for long remaining ignorant of the thrills claimed for the sport, it is pointed out by the management.

The sport should be encouraged in every way possible, it is contended, because it is a fast and clean game played as skillfully. To give the public a chance to extend this encouragement, it is reported, the Allen system of certificates will enable spectators to contribute to purses, a suitable refund or dividend being paid to the citizens who happen to be encouraging a winning player.

To this, the players would be encouraged to give a share. Some of the more enthusiastic observers even go so far as to encourage selected players on each point, the incidental dividend being in direct ratio to the success of the encouraged player. As some of the games are for 15 points, it is possible for a benefactor to encourage jai alai sixteen times in one game—thus in each point and once on the final result.

Chicago Horse Wins in Mud at New Orleans

New Orleans, La., Dec. 19.—[Special]—Crystal Domino, running in the silks of H. Teller Archibald of Chicago and the second choice in the betting, raced to victory in the Dr. Sois handcap which featured the program at Jefferson Park this afternoon.

Ridden hard by Jockey Harold Thurber in the stretch, the son of Flittergold was up in time to take the measure of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Top, Orestes II, which figured extensively in the struggle, wound up in third place.

A favorite among betting shows will be held in the north hall of the Coliseum tomorrow night and a similar series of contests at the Eighth regiment armory Thursday and Friday nights.

Promoter James Mullin will stage a series of four performances in the Coliseum Dec. 20. He intends to conduct four shows next month in the Coliseum. Mullin is planning to use Tommy Powers' band, which will play during the intermissions of the show, while Bud Taylor will meet a worthy opponent in the struggle.

A benefit amateur boating show will be held in the south hall of the Coliseum tomorrow night and a similar series of contests at the Eighth regiment armory Thursday and Friday nights.

Both in Illinois and Indiana fairs have been written to quail and prairie chicken shooting. The boys who like to travel across country with their shotguns in order to kill up the cotton-tails still may operate in January, as in Indiana the hunting closes Jan. 16 while in Illinois rabbit hunting is legal up to and including Jan. 31.

The Illinois and Indiana duck season will close Jan. 15. After that date the duck hunters have pretty good shooting grounds within slightly more than an overnight ride from northern Illinois in the Arkansas rice fields and on Reelfoot lake, Tennessee.

We are now making a check on these waterfowl trapping places. Earlier in the fall, however, the country around us, particularly in the northwest, has been for years, due to the fact that the natural duck food in the lake was abundant.

Arkansas has developed an enviable reputation as a duck hunting state because millions of birds have been dropping into the rice fields for food on their way south.

Wines by Stretch Rush.

Crystal Domino always was close up and when Thurber went to his whip near the finish he was easily the best of the others. He had turned in two rather disgraceful races in his previous starts here.

Two year olds furnished the attraction in the next best race and in this event Mrs. Whitney's colors were carried to victory by Rosinante, with Blue Flag second and Many Flaws third.

There was a plunge on Homewood, thus younger ran a bad race and finished out of the money.

GRAINS ADVANCE IN EVENING UP FOR U.S. CROP REPORT

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Evening up on the part of shorts for the government final estimates on the 1927 crops was responsible for a higher level of grain prices yesterday. Wheat was slightly easier early, but advanced 14@14¢ from the low point and closed with net gains of 14@14¢ with December leading. Lateral finished at 1.27%, and May at $1.31 14@14¢. Corn gained 14@14¢ with December 17,000 bu for the week, and was $8.30/bbl against $8,776,000 bu last year. Clear and cold weather prevailed over the winter wheat belt, and the crop is without snow protection.

Corn finished within a fraction of the top with a local professional good buyer toward the end, presumably covering shorts. Markets remain in a range of 14@14¢. Country offerings to arrive were small despite favorable weather for the movement, while the eastern demand was fair with shipping sales of 100,000 bu. Visible supply increased 96,000 bu for the week, and is 29,325,000 bu against 36,347,000 bu last year. Spanish government has authorized the importation of 7,000,000 bu.

Europe Takes Manitoba.

Foreign demand for cash wheat at the seaboard was very fair with sales of 500,000 to 400,000 bu in all positions, largely Manitoba to the United Kingdom. There are 35,000 bu No. 1 northern being loaded out from here to go

BOESCHENSTEIN HEADS CHICAGO STOCK LANDBANK

BY O. A. MATHER.

The first step in reorganizing the management of the Chicago Joint Stock Land bank, one of the largest of such institutions, was taken yesterday. The directors elected Charles Boeschenstein as president and director to succeed Guy Houston, resigned. It also was announced that several new directors will be elected to succeed directors who have resigned.

Mr. Boeschenstein also is president of the Edwardsville National bank, Edwardsville, Ill., and also organized and was president of the Illinois Midway Joint Stock Land bank. The resignation of Mr. Houston followed his recent conviction of misuse of the mails in connection with the sale of securities of the Southern Minnesota Joint Stock Land bank. The Chicago Joint Stock Land bank is capitalized at $4,000,000. Total assets exceed $61,000,000 and liabilities exceed $60,000,000. It has around $4,000,000 of outstanding bonds.

Chair for Stockholders.

Stockholders of a number of corporations were gratified by Christmas gifts yesterday. The Commonwealth Edison company sent out notices that stockholders of record Dec. 31 may subscribe to additional stock at par to the extent of 12½ per cent of their holdings. Payment may be made in full, in four or in ten installments.

The right to purchase new stock is a valuable one, inasmuch as the market price of Commonwealth Edison shares yesterday was around 160, while the par value is $100, making the right worth about $62 a share. Subscription rights must be exercised by Feb. 1.

The Northern State Power company has given holders of its class A common stock the right to subscribe to additional stock to the extent of 25 per cent of their holdings. Holders of the class B common stock have an identical right. The rights pertain to stockholders of record Jan. 3 and expire Jan. 22.

Change in Dividend Policy.

The Tobacco Products corporation made a change in its dividend policy. The directors declared a quarterly dividend of one-tenth of a share of United Cigar Stores company common stock to be paid in three year scrip, on Tobacco Products common stock. The scrip will be convertible at maturity into United Cigar Stores company common stock or it may be sold at the rate of $22 a share to the Guaranty Trust company. In the latter case, the stockholders will receive $10 a year in cash, compared with $7 heretofore paid.

The Miller Rubber company omitted the common stock quarterly dividend of 50 cents due at this time because of seasonal earnings. The White Eagle Oil company declares a quarterly dividend of 2 cents, compared with 50 cents previously paid. The Great Lakes Steamship company declared two quarterly dividends of $1.25, compared with $1.50 quarterly previously paid.

U. S. VALUES ITS FARM CROPS AT $8,428,626,000

Farm crops in the United States for 1927 were valued at $8,428,626,000 against $7,752,450,000 in 1926, an increase of $675,176,000, or about 8 per cent, as given yesterday in the final returns of the department of agriculture. These values are based on prices paid to the farmer on Dec. 1, or in cases of commercial truck crops, on seasonal farm prices. In its report, the department lists fifty-five kinds of crops.

Total acreage of crops for which figures are compiled was 355,126,465 in 1927, against 355,457,445 for the same crops in 1926.

The farm crop leads in value with $2,014,725,000, with hay second and cotton third. Valuation of grain crops, cotton, hay, white potatoes and tobacco for the two years follow:

	1927	1926
Corn	$2,014,725,000	$1,752,450,000
All wheat	974,084,000	965,364,000
Oats	587,278,000	496,593,000
Grain, total	3,189,087,000	2,244,307,000
All crops	360,524,000	314,476,000
White potatoes	361,017,000	356,355,000
Tobacco	356,355,000	356,355,000

Total Crop Report a Surprise.

Nothing has surprised the grain trade as much as the valuation of crops, especially of corn, in the last few months. The estimate of 2,785,235,000 bu of corn, an increase of 23,000,000 bu over the November figures, is the largest since the November report was issued. The November report was based on 153,000,000 bu when trade expectations were for a cut of around 50,000,000 bu.

The trade is not inclined to accept these figures as indicating the actual production, as private reports have been much below those of the government.

Illinois' estimate of 354,000,000 bu was practically unchanged from the previous estimate. Minnesota was advanced 16,000,000 bu to 100,000,000 bu, while South Dakota was practically unchanged at 150,000,000 bu. Kansas was raised more than $9,000,000 bu to 176,480,000 bu. Texas has 115,247,000 bu. Nebraska's crop is 211,444,000 bu. Indiana's production has reached 123,453,000 bu, and Ohio was cut -900,000 bu from previous estimates to 109,730,000 bu. As the revised figures of last year were not presented, no comparison can be given.

Winter Wheat Unchanged.

Winter wheat production was not changed, and spring wheat was raised 5,000,000 bu, making the total wheat crop 371,691,000 bu, on 58,553,000 acres, compared with 321,000,000 bu on 55,327,000 acres last year. The six states east of the Mississippi river have 142,435,000 bu, or 3,365,000 bu more than previously estimated, and 34,000,000 bu short of the winter wheat figure. The southwestern states have 90,000,000 bu or 2,000,000 bu less than the preliminary returns and 40,000,000 bu more than last year. Kansas is given 111,250,000 bu, while the final figures issued a year ago were 150,000,000 bu.

In the four northwestern spring wheat states, there are 23,000,000 bu, or 7,000,000 bu more than previously estimated, and 10,000,000 bu in excess of the previously reported figures of last year.

Wheat was 1,135,000,000 bu oats as compared with 1,217,000,000 bu in the revised figures of last year. Rye production was cut down to 3,000,000 bu. A white potato crop of 492,000,000 bu was increased 2,000,000 bu in the last month.

The Woman in the Case

BY LOUIS TRACY

SYNOPSIS.

John Arden, returning to his rooms at the Palace hotel, London, in the early hours of the morning, breaks his key in the lock and is given a room in a luxurious suite by the night manager, who assures him that the rooms are unoccupied. He is about to go to sleep when two women enter the apartment. One is addressed as Esmé and the other as Mrs. Sinclair. Arden, hiding, hears them speak of the sudden death of Lord Farndale. They know that he was killed in a motor accident, but do not know the identity of the man who visited Lord Farndale, but cannot locate them. They walk away, but John Arden stands at one of the stations, and behind Mrs. Sinclair he has a talk with her. She admits to Arden that he can call on Mrs. Sinclair, who is back in town, before leaving. Arden, in fear of being detained as a material witness, decides to cross over to Paris with Esmé. Arden takes the girl to the rooms of Jeanne Davison's parents for the night. Before leaving, he calls on his three friends and Detective Furneaux of Scotland Yard, who has joined a conference in London. Arden believes that he can call on Mrs. Sinclair, who is back in town, before going to bed, but he learns nothing from her, beyond the fact that she has been in touch with Juan de Braganza, who claims in spite of the girl's denials to be innocent of the death of Lord Farndale. Mrs. Sinclair is represented by a lawyer named Frankland.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.
IN THE DARK.

John Arden was quite taken aback by the buzz of conversation which suddenly broken out in a place where one could have heard a pin drop when he left it. But the coroner hastened to meet her and explain that he had issued a burial certificate, while no one could say that the court had not the inquiry to travel beyond due bounds or raise issues which related to any individual. Then he handed her over to Mr. Frankland, in the meantime, had rescued Juan de Braganza from the reporters! In England, who had to deal with two other commonplace inquests before he did not fail to arrange a meeting with Mr. Lewis at one o'clock. Lewis, a diamonds, member of the firm which had dealt with Lord Farndale's business during nearly two generations, was equally avid of information; and obtained an invitation to this informal gathering.

"I assure you that my people are as much in the dark as any one," he said to Mr. Lewis. "We know, of course, that he made a rather peculiar provision of which we shall soon disclose, but we had no inkling of what was coming from the Argentine until Lord Farndale sent us that

"We have done nothing of the sort" snapped Furneaux.

of De Braganza's some months ago with definite instructions that it was retained and not answered."

Mr. Frankland was another who would dearly have liked to join that dinner party, but his presence, of course, was impossible. Moreover, he did not take his eyes off his own clients. In a legal sense he did not know whether he was standing on his head or his heels. Obviously, he was in for something from a professional point of view, but his instructions were too confidential in those personal and confidential relations which must exist as between solicitor and client. He believed he represented Senhor Juan de Braganza, among others, yet the first sight he was vouchsafed of that smart young man was when the coroner announced his presence in court. At any rate, he made up his mind not to let go of either Mrs. Sinclair or her son until he was far better posted in their affairs. Indeed, he hustled the two into a taxi and took them straight to his office.

One of the senior reporters tackled the chief.

"Have you anything to tell us, Mr. Winter?"

"Yes," said the chief unexpectedly. "Please don't quote me, but I assure you we are not taking sides with Senhor de Braganza," he said.

"That lad is rather too anxious to broadcast his marriage. Why, he is ready with his press notices as any musical comedy actor just prior to the lead in a suburban tour. But what we would like to know, is whether there is any real mystery about the young lady, Miss Esme Bermore? Who is she? Where is she?"

"Will she appear soon?"

"Will you and another man come to the Yard at six o'clock?" countered Winter. "I may be able then to give you a lot of facts which I don't know at this moment—always with the proviso made already that preliminary stuff published now may prove dangerous and horribly sensational to any newspaper before many days have passed."

"That's all right, chief," said the other, to whom this game of "hearing but not saying" was perfectly familiar. "I only would remind you that a lot of this stuff has gone over the cable to Buenos Aires already, so we may have something back from the other side before our meeting."

"Splendid!" laughed Winter.

The three detectives went straight to New Scotland Yard and held a conference behind closed doors in that comfortable room on the third floor of the building where they have heard so many secrets of modern life.

Winter did not take his usual place at his desk, but strode to one of the windows overlooking the Embankment.

"Tell me what," he snorted fiercely, though his back was turned on his colleague. "I don't like the look of this business. It has somehow developed into a mystery. We should be more concerned at the kidnapping of that girl."

"We have done nothing of the sort," snapped Furneaux.

"The first is the orthodox detective stunt, I need not labor. Why, I, in the presence of two such masters? The second, definite enough and, by the way, this alternative theory of mine was not—not—indeed, the commission will sanction our present attitude for one moment."

"We need to test him. John Arden, the actual brigand, will cheerfully confess to Chinese torture for the lady's sake. I never known such a bad case of love. Arden is one of the strong, silent lads who defy with Ajax the lightning when they find the one woman in the world. Then, we have the bottle holders, Andy Burke and Jimmie Davidson, stout fellows now, listen to me, Charles." Winter said, speaking between the intervals of puffing.

"This affair is infernally serious. It worries me. I don't want to lose my temper and issue frantic orders."

"I wouldn't if I were you," chided Furneaux.

"Suppose you smoke, now, our primary task is, of course, to lay Lord Farndale's murderer by the heels, and we have two fairly distinct lines of approach."

"Now, our primary task is, I need not labor. Why, the first, the orthodox detective stunt, I need not labor. Why, the second, I mean—and I think I will tell you who poisoned the grandmother, and, by the way, this alternative theory of mine was not—not—indeed, the commission will prevent the following up of any clews which may offer here in the future, and, by the way, this alternative theory of mine was not—not—indeed, the commission will establish himself in the inn at Yatton tonight, if I am to be able to cast a fly once upon a time," smiled Sheldon, a handsome young man who might be an ornithologist or an authority on anything, in fact, except a most trusted officer of the criminal

It is a lonely and entirely virtuous young man called "The Harvester," who, with his dog, Bathsheba, has a cabin on a beautiful lake bordering Medicine Woods. Here he makes a profitable living raising herbs.

He has a dream. On a moonlit night a beautiful girl comes walking to him across the water of the lake.

Irish President Picks Party for Trip to U.S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

DUBLIN, Dec. 18.—President William T. Cosgrave's party on the trip to America will consist of five persons, including Desmond Fitzgerald, minister for external affairs; Secretary O'Hearn of the executive council, and Secretary Walsh of the ministry for external affairs. The date and route have not yet been decided on. The president hopes to return by Feb. 1. Prof. Smiddy, the Free State minister at Washington, is arranging the plans.

The film follows the original story quite closely, I believe, though it doesn't make quite clear just why the lady should do some of the things she does. However, "The Harvester" is a pleasing program picture, with some lovely scenery that was beautifully photographed at the Limerick cabin, near Ronan City, Ind., former home estate of the author and the actual locale of the story.

There's Nothing Like Cold Water to Tone Up the Skin

If it is a cold morning when this appears in print perhaps you'd better be warned that our beauty secret for today may give you the shivers to contemplate. That is if you are one of the radiator hugging class or one of the kind that wouldn't plunge her face in cold water on a bet.

It's cold water plunges for the face and neck that we prefer to talk about. We know from the lips of the wise men in the dermatological game that cold is better for the face than heat. Cold gives better tone, color, texture, and firmness to the skin than warm water.

Warm water is better for cleansing and should be indulged in once a day, but if not followed by cold water there

BY JANE EDDINGTON.
Roasting a Turkey.

We do declare, with the poet, that kind hearts are more than corsets, and we have in mind in particular the heart of Miss Lucy H. Badger.

Miss Badger sat down on Nov. 24 and wrote us the following letter: "I need moved to write you this Thanksgiving night because I think I had the most delicious turkey ever roasted today, and I am sure it was no small part due to the fact that I heeded your advice in yesterday's paper and larded the bird with side pork."

"I sat down yesterday afternoon, tired but happy that the turkey was stuffed and waiting for the oven, picked up the paper and after reading your nice article, hid myself down to the market and purchased the pork, which seemed to be just what was needed for perfection in roasting. I thank you for the suggestion and many good ones that have come from your column."

With our own hands we roasted a Thanksgiving turkey, and so are prepared to mention some new experiences. The lardings with pork we can do, but just as we are not sure of the results containing larding pork and some pork fat in the basting liquid may serve a better purpose.

A reader once told us that it was not suitable to use pork fat in basting meats, but that of us. We replied that the most elegant meats in the world were larded with pork, the fat of which cooked out into them, and then we got the reply that I was right this time, but next time I must admit the other's rightness.

A turkey in being singed and gobbler for stubs of feathers will dry up, to a certain extent. The ends of the drumsticks after the feet have been removed with the careful pulling out, will dry up and so will the elbows, as it were, of the wings, while we can, in part, trim off with the scissors the skin and fat of the legs.

The turkey is rubbed with a clove of garlic and then with some soft butter just before it is put in the oven and there has some hot fat over it, we need not put it into the violently hot oven, which is likely to brown the skin too early in the game.

Without her morning plunge, though the thermometer register forty outside, she would dream of going without her breakfast. And she is a "young 'un," as an old character used to speak of his wife. Her skin simply glows with health.

Another friend, no longer of the flapper genre, nevertheless flapping about with the complexion and the neck line of those years her junior, conceived the brilliant idea about seven years ago of using a cold spray on her face and neck after every washing. And this is a beauty trick more women might take notice of to the tone of the skin and the action of the water does seem in the afternoon. Go to the window and look out toward the horizon for a few minutes. Send a stamped addressed envelope for my leaflet on the eyes.

T. L. H.: NEGLECTED TEETH give off an unpleasant odor. It is advisable to have two tooth brushes and alternate in their use, so each will have a chance to dry after it is used. Replace each tooth brush before it becomes old and ragged.

And the cold air against the skin is provocative of better stimulation, as you know yourself, than the warm indoor air or the warm summer air. It is amazing what an hour's brisk walk

FARM AND GARDEN
BY FRANK RIDGWAY

Wild Indian ponies of the west are being killed and fed to chickens on the Pacific coast. Carcasses of them are shipped to the poultry raising sections along the coast where they are slaughtered, skinned, run through a grinder and fed to chickens. Many plants are sprouting up in the west engaged in the slaughtering and processing the carcasses.

The coyote is vanishing from the western range. C. L. Harlan, a federal live stock expert, report that the coyote is considered without value as a saddle horse or work animal, but he has some value when converted into meat scraps or dog biscuits.

In most states, Harlan said, local authorities are now permitted to round up and sell all unclaimed and untaxed horses, and efforts are being made in some sections to rid the range of these animals. He said, "The coyote is a pest all the time, heavy horses and good saddle horses continue at a low level."

Little interest is shown anywhere in the west in the future of horse production, according to this observer. Harlan added that with the advent of the motor trucks and good roads, the pictureque freight outfit with team and wagons coupled together has practically disappeared.

"A team and buckboard are as rare in Wyoming as a horse and buggy in Iowa," he said. "But no mechanical substitute for the cow pony is as yet forthcoming, to high breed boots and chaps are still good form."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Practice Alons.

My niece, a beginner on the piano, was practicing when a neighbor and her daughter came in.

The daughter, who is quite a pianist, started to play my niece's first piece.

Thinking it was the niece, I said: "Why don't you do your practicing some other time?"

Imagine my embarrassment when I discovered what it was.

Mrs. J. R. L.

A Slight Mistake.

Several years ago I was to meet my wife at the side entrance of our church parsonage, there being a lecture in the church parsonage.

It was dark, the street was badly lighted, and I saw a little woman coming toward me dressed in brown, a color my wife always wore.

To tease her I stepped up to her and said, "Woman, give me your purse!"

It wasn't my wife. J. A. W.

NOTICES

BEST HARMONY
Insurance for Old Age Is Intellect
BY DORIS BLAKE.

Mr. and Mrs. Kane, we will call have lived together for thirty years. They married at 18 and 20. They reared a family of four, all married now and with one exception live in other states than the one in which Mr. and Mrs. Kane now live.

Mr. Kane was of humble origin, but ability beyond the average in a mercantile way. He, in his travel up and down the country, naturally absorbed an education in the university of life. His wife confined her entire interests to the home and its environment. In general friends warned her earlier she should not neglect the development of her mind. And she has arranged the leisure time of hundreds of clever wives of her friends described her as one of those dust chasers. "Seeing that no dust rested on a piece of furniture around her home, she had to leave town." There is nothing more important than that just didn't settle on her.

Which is what has happened. The management between herself and her husband is beyond her understanding. There is no talk of an open between them, one has but to leave their presence a half hour to the chasm between them at the time of mental compatibility is more than anything else.

The situation is common, and while Mr. Kane, having delayed so long, may be able to catch up with his wife, there are any number of Mrs. Kanes who might try to prove that the husband is not responsible, if the wife is not more considerate than the husband. If there is little in common intellectually there is bound to be dissatisfaction.

There is only one way to guard against such a tragedy and it is to make up your mind early enough that you will not be a willing victim. The popular twists and turns of fate you may not be able to control, but at least every one may provide "that last minute" which Cicero pointed out long ago as a safeguard against life's ever becoming a void.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS*You Remember Him.

Dear Miss Blake: I have been steadily with a fellow for a little over a year. Do you think it is proper to exchange presents at Christmas?

MARY.

It's quite proper, Mary. He will remember you, no doubt, and by giving him some little gift you show your appreciation of the many nice things he has done for you.
